COX FORMALLY ENTERS RACE

Former Ohio Governor Placed in Nomination by Newton D. Baker, and is Accorded a Fifteen Minutes' Demonstration—Latest Entries Include Glass of Virginia and Silzer of New Jersey.

New York, June 28.—Sixteen candidates seek the Democratic nomination for president. The following have been placed in nomination at the Democratic national convention: William G. McAdoo of California. Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York. Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama. James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic nominee in 1920. Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas. Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana. Willard Saulsbury of Delaware. David F. Houston of New York. Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland. Governor Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas. Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris of Michigan. Governor Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire. Governor George Silzer of New Jersey. Governor Charles Bryan of Nebraska, brother of William Jennings Bryan. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. John W. Davis of West Virginia. The name of James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and presidential nominee in 1920, was placed in nomination at the fourth session of the Democratic convention.

Newton D. Baker, former war secretary, who placed Cox's name before the gathering, was roundly cheered as he mounted the platform. The applause was generous throughout his speech, especially as he urged the Democrats to stick to the principles of Woodrow Wilson, with specific mention of the league of nations. As Baker finished the entire hall gave a cheer and the Ohio delegation continued the demonstration for several minutes, as the band played "Ohio." A scrap developed among the Buckeye delegates who wanted to parade and policemen appeared on the scene, but the delegation settled the fracas without any casualties and order was restored. Ed Moore, Cox floor leader, led the forces who advised against a parade. The Cox demonstration lasted 14 minutes all told.

Call of States.

The fourth session was opened with prayer by Rev. Dwight W. Wythe, pastor of Central Presbyterian church of New York. After a few announcements by the secretary the call of the roll of states for nominations and seconding speeches was resumed. Minnesota led off in the person of William J. Quinn of St. Paul, who seconded the nomination of Al Smith. Mississippi yielded to Ohio and Baker mounted the platform and placed James M. Cox in nomination. The fact that Mississippi yielded to Ohio and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, the keynoter, was one of the Cox floor leaders at San Francisco four years ago, it was believed that Harrison had decided to line up with Cox again. Baker's speech was frequently interrupted by handclapping. His first mention of the league of nations brought a sharp outbreak of cheering, handclapping and, finally, one after another, the delegations, with the exception of Wisconsin, rose to their feet, waved flags and applauded. Baker denounced the klan and brought a number of the delegations to their feet. Eugene D. O'Sullivan of Omaha placed Governor Charles Bryan of Nebraska in nomination. Bryan is a brother of William J. Bryan. Clyde Keefe of New Hampshire placed Fred H. Brown, governor of New Hampshire, in nomination. New Jersey was next on the roll and John A. Matthews of Newark mounted the platform to nominate Governor George Silzer. The New Jersey delegates staged a parade. New York fell in behind, setting up a great roar. The chair recognized next on the roll of states J. F. T. O'Connor of North Dakota, who made a plea against the raising of any religious or race issues in this campaign, and seconded the nomination of McAdoo. After a dreary stretch of second-

AMERICAN WINS

Walter Hagen Captures English Open Air Championship. London, June 28.—Walter Hagen won the English open championship, nosing out E. R. Whitcombe of England by one stroke. Hagen played his fourth round in 77 for a card of 31. Whitcombe had a card of 30. MacDonald Smith of the American team finished with a 77 for an aggregate of 304, leaving him tied with Frank Ball. Hagen's victory was the result of pluck, endurance and sound golf. He started out with a 77 for his first round, several strokes over some competitors who were hardly considered in his class. In the second round, however, the American star came home with a brilliant 75, being topped only by the remarkable 74 of Whitcombe.

KLAN ISSUE UP TO DELEGATES

Will Be Fought Out on Floor of the Convention.

TWO REPORTS ARE DRAWN UP

Resolutions Committee Favors Proposal Calling For National Referendum on Question of American Membership in World League. Other Planks in National Democratic Platform.

New York, June 28.—The klan issue will be fought out on the floor of the Democratic national convention.

The resolutions committee has decided to present majority and minority reports on the question of naming the klan in the platform.

The committee by a vote of 34 to 16 approved a proposal for a national referendum on the question of American membership in the league of nations. There was an understanding that the referendum provision would be attached as a part of the Clarke-Young foreign relations plank, which declares for American co-operation with the other nations in preserving the peace of the world and severely assails the Republican administration for its handling of foreign affairs.

The following platform planks have been approved:

Railroads—Declaration for repeal of section 15-A of the Esch-Cummings act. This is the rate-making section under which the interstate commerce commission sets a rate that will guarantee the roads a return of 5% per cent upon their investment. Call for revision of the law under which the railroad labor board operates.

Farm Relief—Modified endorsement of the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill, which is claimed as a Democratic plan fostered first by Bernard M. Baruch. Modifications include expressions against actual price fixing by the government.

Tariff—Denunciation of the Fordney-McCumber tariff, blaming it for the farmers' economic ills and pledging substantially lower rates in accord with Democratic principles.

Industry Regulation—Pledging the party to regulate the coal industry for lower prices along with "all other corporations controlling the necessities of life wherever the public interests rise above private interests."

Taxation—Declaration for 40 per cent surtax and lower rates on incomes of less than $5,000, with a denunciation of the Mellon plan.

War Referendum—The Bryan plank, urging that all the nations of the world join in a program for declaration of war only after a national referendum.

Prohibition—The prohibition plank calls for law enforcement without mentioning the Volstead act.

The plank declaring for a federal constitutional amendment to regulate employment of child labor was hotly fought by southern delegates on the committee and was dropped.

HARMON'S STAN

Would Not Mention Klan by Name in Any Resolution Offered.

New York, June 28.—Former Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio is opposed to the mention of the klan by name in any resolution to be adopted by the convention. The position taken by former Governor Harmon is at variance with the resolution adopted by the Ohio delegation on the klan issue. When the delegation is polled in the convention, Mr. Harmon says he will ask to be registered against the drastic anti-klan plank. In explaining his reasons he said: "I don't believe it would be wise policy to mention the klan by name and I oppose doing so, furthermore, because I think it would lend dignity to the klan organization. I do not wish to be understood as approving the klan as an organization. I am dead against it."

Attacks Blue Sky Division. London, O., June 28.—State Senator J. F. Burke, Republican candidate for governor, in a speech here, declared the "state blue sky law department should be made to function for the actual protection of Ohio investors, rather than as a 'smoke screen' behind which swindlers are sent out onto the public."

Japanese Kills Self. Tokio, June 28.—Saijo, prominent Japanese, committed suicide at his home on Formosa island, according to word received here. Saijo left a will in which he set forth his feelings on the United States immigration law and expressed a hope that it would be repealed.

JOHN W. DAVIS

One of Candidates For Democratic Presidential Nomination.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Autoists Meet.

Cedar Point, O., June 28.—Delegates representing 86 automobile clubs in Ohio gathered here for the annual convention of the Ohio State Automobile association. Cyrus Locher, state director of commerce, addressed the convention in place of Governor Dohahey. The governor had intended to answer criticisms of the association in the administration of the state highway department. Attorney General Crabbe also delivered an address.

Urbaytis Acquitted.

Toledo, June 28.—Frank Urbaytis, brother of Joe Urbaytis of Toledo postoffice robbery fame, was acquitted on a charge of participation in the $2,900 payroll robbery of the Holland Bread company by a jury here. Frank and Joe Urbaytis were captured recently by Columbus detectives after a gun battle in which Joe was wounded. The latter is still confined in a Columbus hospital.

To Head Christian Endeavorers.

Cincinnati, June 28.—George C. Southwell of Cleveland, will be the next president of the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union, according to the report of the nominating committee before the annual convention of the organization here. His name, together with those of the other candidates, is unopposed.

Claim Streams Polluted.

Xenia, O., June 28.—Alleging the Hager Board and Paper company has been polluting the waters of Massies creek and the Little Miami river by discharging waste material into them from its factory at Cedarville, a number of property owners instituted injunction proceedings in the Greene county courts.

Grand Jury to Probe Case.

Cleveland, June 28.—Chief Justice Powell of common pleas court granted the request that a special jury be called at once to investigate the Municipal Savings and Loan company representative Realty company tangle.

Robbed of $1,400.

Nelsonville, O., June 28.—Nimrod Matherly, coal operator, reported to the police that he had been struck down, robbed of a $1,400 payroll and left tied to a tree near here by unidentified thugs.

Club Favors Gas Tax.

Athens, O., June 28.—The Athens county automobile club, 1,500 strong, favors a gasoline tax for Ohio. The club will favor any reasonable tax sufficient to maintain the roads, its officials say.

Yacht Burns.

Toledo, June 28.—Fire destroyed the $75,000 yacht, Reo-Mar, owned by D. C. Stephenson of Indianapolis, Ind., in the lagoon at the Toledo Yacht club in Bay View park. The crew escaped.

Fireworks Banned.

Cleveland, June 28.—Police Inspector George Matowitz placed a ban on fireworks sales. Police were instructed to arrest anyone shooting off fireworks within the city limits.

North Dakota Primaries.

Fargo, N. D., June 28.—Nonpartisan league victories were forecast as returns from the state primary showed league candidates leading independents for the Republican nominations, except for governor. Governor R. A. Nestos, though still leading Arthur G. Sorlie, Leaguer, by 3,800 votes, is constantly losing ground, country districts reported.

THE WEATHER.

Ohio—Sunday: Cloudy; cooler.

ALL SEEM EAGER FOR BALLOTING

Candidates Reported Primed for Supreme Test.

BACKERS EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

Statement From McAdoo Headquarters Says Labor Demands Nomination of Californian—Smith Said to Have Received Pledges of Support From Southern Delegations—Taggart Sees Ralston in Front.

New York, June 28.—Supporters of the several candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination say they are all primed for the balloting, which may begin tonight.

It is expected that the convention will dispose of the platform this afternoon, when a recess will likely be taken until evening.

From McAdoo's headquarters was issued a statement signed by several labor leaders, including Timothy Shea of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, to the effect that William G. McAdoo must be the Democratic presidential nominee or organized labor will support the third party movement at Cleveland July 4. The statement said there was no other available candidate to whom the workman will give the same unqualified support.

Backers of Governor Al Smith declared their readiness to test strength with other candidates and begin balloting for the prize as soon as the party platform has been adopted by the convention. Franklin Roosevelt, Smith's campaign manager, announced he had received pledges of support from some of the southern delegations. He denied that he or any of the Smith workers had attempted to "barter" for support or had promised to throw their strength to candidates put forward for the vice presidency in return for Smith support.

Confident that McAdoo is beaten, and equally confident that they have sufficient votes to nominate their candidate, the Smith men claim the governor would "go over on the tenth ballot."

Thomas Taggart, Indiana leader, said: "When this race starts Senator Ralston will be on the outside, just as he is now. He will still trail at the half. But the leaders will be tiring, perhaps. I suspect he will. But he will finish strong. We will come in front regardless of how far we may be back earlier in the race, or how much dust is thrown in our eyes by the other horses."

Ovation Pleases EX-GOVERNOR COX

Makes Short Address to Crowd Before His Office.

Dayton, O., June 28.—Thousands here listened in yesterday as the radio brought back the speech of Newton D. Baker nominating James M. Cox and the noise of the Cox demonstration in Madison Square Garden.

Then a crowd of radio and Cox fans gathered outside the former Ohio governor's office at the Dayton Daily News and cheered their native son until he came to a window on the third floor, threw it open and acknowledged the tribute. Responding to shouts for a speech, the governor, who had been at the radio during the Ohio demonstration in Madison Square Garden, said:

"Mr. Baker's most eloquent speech has moved me very deeply, as has the demonstration in the convention hall. Few people know what the campaign of 1920 exacted, in physical and nervous strength. I now feel that it has all been worth while. My highest hope is that the convention will stand by principles, so that we may continue the contest for peace and humanity under the banner of Democracy. The seven million plurality could have been whittled down very materially if I had forsaken principle for expediency. My conscience again tells me that it pays its self-respect to stand for the things that are right."

HERE AND THERE

H. F. Reiman, 46, retired farmer, was found dead on railroad tracks near Murphysboro, Ill., with a bullet wound in his head. No gun was found.

CLAIMS McADOO BEATEN

Moore Comments on Vote on Adjournment of Convention.

New York, June 28.—Ed H. Moore, Ohio national committeeman, declared here that in his opinion the vote taken on adjournment Thursday evening sounded William G. McAdoo's political death knell. Moore said:

"The McAdoo people mustered 513 votes on their motion. That is the highest number of votes they possibly can get on a presidential nomination ballot. I have said that they could not obtain a greater strength than 507 votes, which is 225 less than the two-thirds necessary to a choice of a presidential candidate. But in the voting of the motion to adjourn there were a number of delegates who voted on the McAdoo side who did so in the desire to get home as soon as possible and believed that the McAdoo motion would help them to that end. Notice that the ballot shows that delegations from distant states who are not on the McAdoo side voted for the recess proposed by the McAdoo people."

Swept by Severe Storm.

Kansas City, June 28.—One man was killed and seven injured in a storm here. It was the most severe rain, hail and windstorm experienced in Kansas City in a decade. The Missouri river registered 20 feet, twice its normal depth. Torrents rushed down the streets, sweeping out pavement in blocks and tying up traffic. Automobiles trying to make their way through the blinding rain were stalled when the pavement buckled beneath them and was swept away in large chunks.

CURTIS INDICTED

Brother of Ousted Mayor of Canton Faces Serious Charge.

Canton, O., June 28.—Ed E. Curtis, former director of public safety of Canton and brother of C. C. Curtis, ousted mayor, was indicted on seven counts charging bribery by the Stark county grand jury. The indictment is the outgrowth of charges filed before Governor Donahey and testimony brought out at the gubernatorial hearing in Columbus.

Harry Turner and Harry Bouklis, both of Canton, were indicted on charges of perjury. Turner and Bouklis were star witnesses against the Curtis brothers in the hearing before Governor Donahey, which resulted in the removal of Mayor Curtis.

The indictments charge Curtis specifically with accepting money from bootleggers for protection. He was released on $14,000 bond.

Woman Slain.

Toledo, June 28.—William Goulden, 25, shot and killed Mrs. Laura Navarre, 38, here, because, police say, Mrs. Navarre accused Goulden of the theft of $9 she had saved to pay her rent. Goulden attempted suicide by shooting after the affray. He is in a hospital probably fatally wounded.

Heads Lions' Club.

New York, June 28.—The klan issue will be fought out on the floor of the Democratic national convention.

The resolutions committee has decided to present majority and minority reports on the question of naming the klan in the platform.

The committee by a vote of 34 to 16 approved a proposal for a national referendum on the question of American membership in the league of nations. There was an understanding that the referendum provision would be attached as a part of the Clarke-Young foreign relations plank, which declares for American co-operation with the other nations in preserving the peace of the world and severely assails the Republican administration for its handling of foreign affairs.

The following platform planks have been approved:

Railroads—Declaration for repeal of section 15-A of the Esch-Cummings act. This is the rate-making section under which the interstate commerce commission sets a rate that will guarantee the roads a return of 5% per cent upon their investment. Call for revision of the law under which the railroad labor board operates.

Farm Relief—Modified endorsement of the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill, which is claimed as a Democratic plan fostered first by Bernard M. Baruch. Modifications include expressions against actual price fixing by the government.

Tariff—Denunciation of the Fordney-McCumber tariff, blaming it for the farmers' economic ills and pledging substantially lower rates in accord with Democratic principles.

Industry Regulation—Pledging the party to regulate the coal industry for lower prices along with "all other corporations controlling the necessities of life wherever the public interests rise above private interests."

Taxation—Declaration for 40 per cent surtax and lower rates on incomes of less than $5,000, with a denunciation of the Mellon plan.

War Referendum—The Bryan plank, urging that all the nations of the world join in a program for declaration of war only after a national referendum.

Prohibition—The prohibition plank calls for law enforcement without mentioning the Volstead act.

The plank declaring for a federal constitutional amendment to regulate employment of child labor was hotly fought by southern delegates on the committee and was dropped.

HARMON'S STAND

Would Not Mention Klan by Name in Any Resolution Offered.

New York, June 28.—Former Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio is opposed to the mention of the klan by name in any resolution to be adopted by the convention. The position taken by former Governor Harmon is at variance with the resolution adopted by the Ohio delegation on the klan issue. When the delegation is polled in the convention, Mr. Harmon says he will ask to be registered against the drastic anti-klan plank. In explaining his reasons he said: "I don't believe it would be wise policy to mention the klan by name and I oppose doing so, furthermore, because I think it would lend dignity to the klan organization. I do not wish to be understood as approving the klan as an organization. I am dead against it."

Attacks Blue Sky Division.

London, O., June 28.—State Senator J. F. Burke, Republican candidate for governor, in a speech here, declared the "state blue sky law department should be made to function for the actual protection of Ohio investors, rather than as a 'smoke screen' behind which swindlers are sent out onto the public."

Japanese Kills Self.

Tokio, June 28.—Saijo, prominent Japanese, committed suicide at his home on Formosa Island, according to word received here. Saijo left a will in which he set forth his feelings on the United States immigration law and expressed a hope that it would be repealed.

JOHN W. DAVIS

One of Candidates For Democratic Presidential Nomination.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Autoists Meet.

Cedar Point, O., June 28.—Delegates representing 86 automobile clubs in Ohio gathered here for the annual convention of the Ohio State Automobile association. Cyrus Locher, state director of commerce, addressed the convention in place of Governor Donahy. The governor had intended to answer criticisms of the association in the administration of the state highway department. Attorney General Crabbe also delivered an address.

Urbaytis Acquitted.

Toledo, June 28.—Frank Urbaytis, brother of Joe Urbaytis of Toledo postoffice robbery fame, was acquitted on a charge of participation in the $2,000 payroll robbery of the Holland Bread company by a jury here. Frank and Joe Urbaytis were captured recently by Columbus detectives after a gun battle in which Joe was wounded. The latter is still confined in a Columbus hospital.

To Head Christian Endeavorers.

Cincinnati, June 28.—George C. Southwell of Cleveland, will be the next president of the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union, according to the report of the nominating committee before the annual convention of the organization here. His name, together with those of the other candidates, is unopposed.

Claim Streams Polluted.

Xenia, O., June 28.—Alleging the Hager Board and Paper company has been polluting the waters of Massies creek and the Little Miami river by discharging waste material into them from its factory at Cedarville, a number of property owners instituted injunction proceedings in the Greene county courts.

Grand Jury to Probe Case.

Cleveland, June 28.—Chief Justice Powell of common pleas court granted the request that a special jury be called at once to investigate the Municipal Savings and Loan company representative Realty company tangle.

Robbed of $1,400.

Nelsonville, O., June 28.—Nimrod Matheny, coal operator, reported to the police that he had been struck down, robbed of a $1,400 payroll and left tied to a tree near here by unidentified thugs.

Club Favors Gas Tax.

Athens, O., June 28.—The Athens county automobile club, 1,500 strong, favors a gasoline tax for Ohio. The club will favor any reasonable tax sufficient to maintain the roads, its officials say.

Yacht Burns.

Toledo, June 28.—Fire destroyed the $75,000 yacht, Reo-Mar, owned by D. C. Stephenson of Indianapolis, Ind., in the lagoon at the Toledo Yacht club in Bay View park. The crew escaped.

Fireworks Banned.

Cleveland, June 28.—Police Inspector George Matowitz placed a ban on fireworks sales. Police were instructed to arrest anyone shooting off fireworks within the city limits.

North Dakota Primaries.

Fargo, N. D., June 28.—Nonpartisan league victories were forecast as returns from the state primary showed league candidates leading independents for the Republican nominations, except for governor. Governor R. A. Nestos, though still leading Arthur G. Sorlie, Leaguer, by 3,800 votes, is constantly losing ground, country districts reported.

THE WEATHER.

Ohio—Sunday: Cloudy; cooler.

ALL SEEM EAGER FOR BALLOTING

Candidates Reported Primed for Supreme Test.

BACKERS EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

Statement From McAdoo Headquarters Says Labor Demands Nomination of Californian—Smith Said to Have Received Pledges of Support From Southern Delegations—Taggart Sees Ralston in Front.

New York, June 28.—Supporters of the several candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination say they are all primed for the balloting, which may begin tonight.

It is expected that the convention will dispose of the platform this afternoon, when a recess will likely be taken until evening.

From McAdoo's headquarters was issued a statement signed by several labor leaders, including Timothy Shea of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, to the effect that William G. McAdoo must be the Democratic presidential nominee or organized labor will support the third party movement at Cleveland July 4. The statement said there was no other available candidate to whom the workman will give the same unqualified support.

Backers of Governor Al Smith declared their readiness to test strength with other candidates and begin balloting for the prize as soon as the party platform has been adopted by the convention. Franklin Roosevelt, Smith's campaign manager, announced he had received pledges of support from some of the southern delegations. He denied that he or any of the Smith workers had attempted to "barter" for support or had promised to throw their strength to candidates put forward for the vice presidency in return for Smith support.

Confident that McAdoo is beaten, and equally confident that they have sufficient votes to nominate their candidate, the Smith men claim the governor would "go over on the tenth ballot."

Thomas Taggart, Indiana leader, said: "When this race starts Senator Ralston will be on the outside, just as he is now. He will still trail at the half. But the leaders will be tiring, perhaps. He may trail at the seven-eighths. I suspect he will. But he will finish strong. We will come in front regardless of how far we may be back earlier in the race, or how much dust is thrown in our eyes by the other horses."

OVATION PLEASES EX-GOVERNOR COX

Makes Short Address to Crowd Before His Office.

Dayton, O., June 28.—Thousands here listened in yesterday as the radio brought back the speech of Newton D. Baker nominating James M. Cox and the noise of the Cox demonstration in Madison Square Garden.

Then a crowd of radio and Cox fans gathered outside the former Ohio governor's office at the Dayton Daily News and cheered their native son until he came to a window on the third floor, threw it open and acknowledged the tribute. Responding to shouts for a speech, the governor, who had been at the radio during the Ohio demonstration in Madison Square Garden, said:

"Mr. Baker's most eloquent speech has moved me very deeply, as has the demonstration in the convention hall. Few people know what the campaign of 1920 exacted, in physical and nervous strength. I now feel that it has all been worth while. My highest hope is that the convention will stand by principles, so that we may continue the contest for peace and humanity under the banner of Democracy. The seven million plurality could have been whittled down very materially if I had forsaken principle for expediency. My conscience again tells me that it pays in self-respect to stand for the things that are right."

HERE AND THERE

H. F. Reiman, 46, retired farmer, was found dead on railroad tracks near Murphysboro, Ill., with a bullet wound in his head. No gun was found.

CLAIMS McADOO BEATEN

Moore Comments on Vote on Adjournment of Convention.

New York, June 28.—Ed H. Moore, Ohio national committeeman, declared here that in his opinion the vote taken on adjournment Thursday evening sounded William G. McAdoo's political death knell. Moore said:

"The McAdoo people mustered 513 votes on their motion. That is the highest number of votes they possibly can get on a presidential nomination ballot. I have said that they could not obtain a greater strength than 507 votes, which is 25 less than the two-thirds necessary to a choice of a presidential candidate. But in the voting of the motion to adjourn there were a number of delegates who voted on the McAdoo side who did so in the desire to get home as soon as possible and believed that the McAdoo motion would help them to that end. Notice that the ballot shows that delegations from distant states who are not on the McAdoo side voted for the recess proposed by the McAdoo people."

Swept by Severe Storm.

Kansas City, June 28.—One man was killed and seven injured in a storm here. It was the most severe rain, hail and windstorm experienced in Kansas City in a decade. The Missouri river registered 20 feet, twice its normal depth. Torrents rushed down the streets, sweeping out pavement in blocks and tying up traffic. Automobiles trying to make their way through the blinding rain were stalled when the pavement buckled beneath them and was swept away in large chunks.

CURTIS INDICTED

Brother of Ousted Mayor of Canton Faces Serious Charge.

Canton, O., June 28.—Ed E. Curtis, former director of public safety of Canton and brother of C. C. Curtis, ousted mayor, was indicted on seven counts charging bribery by the Stark county grand jury. The indictment is the outgrowth of charges filed before Governor Donahy and testimony brought out at the gubernatorial hearing in Columbus.

Harry Turner and Harry Bouklis, both of Canton, were indicted on charges of perjury. Turner and Bouklis were star witnesses against the Curtis brothers in the hearing before Governor Donahy, which resulted in the removal of Mayor Curtis.

The indictments charge Curtis specifically with accepting money from bootleggers for protection. He was released on $14,000 bond.

Woman Slain.

Toledo, June 28.—William Goulden, 25, shot and killed Mrs. Laura Navarre, 36, here, because, police say, Mrs. Navarre accused Goulden of the theft of $9 she had saved to pay her rent. Goulden attempted suicide by shooting after the affray. He is in a hospital probably fatally wounded.

Heads Lions' Club.

WATERWAY NOT NEW IDEA

Project of Connecting the Oceans Through Canal Across America Is Ancient One.
As early as 1522—seven years before the Panama canal project was first talked about—Gil Gonzalez Davila explored Nicaragua in an effort to find a natural waterway or to select a route for a possible canal. In 1550 Antonio Galvao, a Portuguese navigator, proposed four routes for a canal across the isthmus—one by Lake Nicaragua and the San Juan river. The latter route was surveyed for the Spanish government in 1781, by Don Manuel Galtico. About fifty years later John Bailey, an American, mapped out the route, and in 1872 the American government became interested. President Grant particularly favored a Nicaraguan canal. A company was formed and a construction expedition actually arrived on the scene, but the firm went into the hands of receivers. The French started the Panama canal scheme, but because of rotten politics at home and yellow fever on the isthmus, it ended in dismal failure for them. The United States bought out the French interests and dug the Panama canal, but only after it had waged a strenuous battle against disease in Panama and reclaimed that country to health and sanitation.

Why Clerks Were Happy.

A friend said to a big business man: "I notice that your clerks are all in a fine humor; have you been raising their wages or something?" "Not so you could notice it," answered the big business man. "To be frank, it's just because my wife has been in, and it tickles them to death to see some one boss me around."

Savior of Denmark.

Young Captain Delgas learned that running water was the death of heathen which in the early part of the Nineteenth century overran the lands of Denmark and threatened to make it a desert waste. He, accordingly, put the people to digging ditches and canals. Peas, beets and rye soon began to grow and cows and pigs followed. The waste was reclaimed in good time and Denmark became a land of butter, eggs and bacon.

Chicory.

Chicory is quite extensively cultivated in Europe for use as a table salad, for fodder, and for the roots. The young leaves, when properly blended, are considered equal, as a salad, to those of endive. The principal use of the plant, however, is for its roots, which are roasted and ground and in that form used as a substitute for coffee, or as an adulterant for coffee, snuff and other articles.

Passion Fruit.

Passion fruit has long been popular in Australia for flavoring ice cream and cold drinks, being refreshingly delicious. Here in California the vines have been used in screen buildings, and some few for commercial purposes, but it is just recently that the cultivation of the passion vine has been begun on an extensive scale.

Savior of Denmark.

Young Captain Delgas learned that running water was the death of heathen which in the early part of the Nineteenth century overran the lands of Denmark and threatened to make it a desert waste. He, accordingly, put the people to digging ditches and canals. Peas, beets and rye soon began to grow and cows and pigs followed. The waste was reclaimed in good time and Denmark became a land of butter, eggs and bacon.

Chicory.

Chicory is quite extensively cultivated in Europe for use as a table salad, for fodder, and for the roots. The young leaves, when properly blended, are considered equal, as a salad, to those of endive. The principal use of the plant, however, is for its roots, which are roasted and ground and in that form used as a substitute for coffee, or as an adulterant for coffee, snuff and other articles.

Passion Fruit.

Passion fruit has long been popular in Australia for flavoring ice cream and cold drinks, being refreshingly delicious. Here in California the vines have been used in screen buildings, and some few for commercial purposes, but it is just recently that the cultivation of the passion vine has been begun on an extensive scale.

A DELIGHTFUL JOURNEY

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker have returned from a three weeks' trip to Cleveland, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and to Toronto, Montreal and Quebec in Canada. The trip from Cleveland to Buffalo and the Canadian cities was made by boat and returning they came down the Hudson river from Albany to New York. While in Cleveland they visited the Federal Reserve bank and the Union Trust company bank and attended the Republican National convention.

HERRICK
REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

GERMANY LAND OF
QUEER CONTRASTS

Changes Observed by Travelers Since Great War.

We ask the waiter about an unfamiliar gemuse on the menu, writes Viola Paradise in the New Republic. He disappears, and presently a white-bearded scholar approaches, adjusting his pince-nez. He speaks in only slightly accented English. "You inquire about this vegetable?"

"Oh, you are very kind."

"It is somewhat like your turnip in flavor, but it is not a root. It is not of the mustard family." Follow Latin botanical terms, and then the startling conclusion in a matter-of-fact voice:

"Do you wish to order it?"

We are taken aback. "Oh, the waiter."

"No matter. He is taking care of my table. We often exchange."

We give our order in embarrassment. "But surely," one of us explodes, "you sound more like a scientist than a waiter!"

A moment's pause. Then he says: "The lady is astute. My life—before—was devoted to science. Now it is easier to sustain life serving vegetables than teaching them. . . . A little fish, perhaps? It is excellent today."

When an accident happens in Berlin, scatter, vanish. Otherwise you will be held as a witness, which is not without its compensations. Motor car accident; smashed wheels. An American saunters up to regard the scene. Suddenly he realizes that he is alone except for the active participants. He must come along as a witness, the police insist.

The "black Maria"—or rather, its German equivalent—is here. "But I am an American!" he repeats.

At the station they ask him questions; he answers persistently in English. "I know nothing about it. I am an American." Over and over. It is obviously true, no one denies it. At last he may go. Only first there is something to pay—a few million marks. "But why?" It is for the ride to the station in the "black Maria."

A pleasant American business man, on a year's leave of absence, having "a grand time." No money worries, his dollar buys so much. Some adventures, too. That time, for instance, when he offered his seat to an old lady in a Berlin street car and a pompous blond man popped into it.

No American could stand for that. He explains to the man that the seat had been offered to the lady. A stony glare. Then his strong right American hand grasps the pompous blond by his shirt front, draws him from the seat, holds him amazed, sputtering, outraged, until the timid old lady has her place. Now the dumfounded German finds his tongue: "Sir! Do you realize who I am? In the Kaiser's army I was an officer! I am a retired army officer!"

"You may be all that, buddy," says the American, in a good-humored tone, "but you're no gentleman."

Two German workmen from the other end of the car leave their seats to come and shake hands with the American.

Some Fish Hibernate

Many fish do hibernate but the phenomenon is not very well understood. Certain fish in the temperate zones hibernate, but they do not fall into a condition of complete torpidity as hibernating reptiles and mammals do. However, their vital functions are lowered and they hide in sheltered holes and cease to go abroad to search for food. Other species, especially in the tropics, survive long drouths by passing the dry season in a perfectly torpid state, imbedded deep in the mud. A few species prepare themselves a cavity coated inside with a layer of hardened mucus which preserves them from complete desiccation. In India, it is said, fish survive more than one season in ponds which are dry for several years. Even though the bottom of the pond has been dry for over a year, when the water releases them from the mud the fish come out apparently none the worse for their experience.

"Rare Ben"

The epithet was conferred upon Ben Jonson (1574-1637), the celebrated English poet and dramatist. It is stated by John Aubrey, in his letters, that the inscription, "O Rare Ben Jonson," over the poet's grave in Westminster abbey, was placed there at the suggestion of one Jack Young, an eccentric gentleman, who at the time of the burial gave a workman 18 pence to engrave it. Jonson is buried in an upright position beneath the pavement of the north aisle of the abbey; but a medallion in his honor may be seen in the south transept, or poets' corner.—Kansas City Star.

Clever Gunsight

It was Sir Howard Grubb, the Irish telescope maker, who invented a most ingenious form of telescopic sight for use with a rifle. Neither fore nor back sight is employed with this contrivance, but the shooter, in taking aim, looks through a small lens, which, by an optical device, throws an image of a bright little cross in front of the gun and in line with the barrel. The image serves as a foresight, and by simply holding the center of the cross upon the object aimed at, the marksman takes his aim.

That's All

"Then you consider Booby a fool?" "No," replied J. Fuller Gloom. "I merely think that he knows the least on the most subjects of any man of my acquaintance."—Kansas City Star

Lip Reading

Lip reading is taught to all deaf children of normal intelligence in London. The county council maintains nine schools for the deaf in which 675 children are taught by 71 teachers. Attendance is not compulsory until the children are seven years old, but it is considered desirable to admit them as soon after the age of three as possible. Up to the age of thirteen the deaf children attend special day schools, where the elementary subjects are taught. Special guides are hired by the county council to assist the children in going to and from school. Residential schools are provided for children from thirteen to sixteen, one for subnormal boys and girls who must be taught by other methods than lip reading, one for normal boys, and one for normal girls. Vocational instruction occupies half the time in these schools. Cabinet-making, tailoring, bootmaking and baking are taught to boys, and dressmaking and fine laundry work to girls. Most of these boys and girls have little trouble in finding employment after leaving the schools.—School Life.

A QUERY.

Whether this old world of ours is filled with cold, calculating, selfish mortals whose sole mission in life is directed toward gathering to themselves all the good things of life, or whether it is peopled with generous folks who exist only to scatter sunshine and roses in the pathway of others, depends entirely upon the viewpoint.

Until recently we were strongly inclined to the belief that selfishness is the motive power behind the mad rush for money, position, finery, good looks and fame, but we have been awakened and disillusioned.

A short time ago, we complimented a young girl on her good looks and the possession of a beautiful, new hat which she adorned and remarked that it must be a very great pleasure to be able to get such a magnificent headpiece and one which was so becoming to her particular style of beauty, and then came the awakening.

Politely, but firmly, we were informed that her own gratification was the farthest thing from her thoughts; that, indeed the matter of arraying herself in expensive gowns and fetching headgear and stylish shoes, was rather irksome; yet she reluctantly gained the consent of her own mind to make the sacrifice in order to produce a charming picture which would give genuine pleasure to all beholders, and more especially to all her sisters, and which would act as a soothing benediction upon all within the range of whose vision she came.

But, we give it up. The masculine mind can never hope to comprehend what is in the back of the head of our fair sisters any more than he can convince himself whether or not the addition of multi-colored finery adds to or detracts from the loveliness of the gentler sex.

To illustrate. A few days ago we observed this same sweet, young thing under the self same hat set on "hindsight before" and the picture lost none of its beauty. Probably the effect would have been the same if it had been worn "upside down."

BONDED INDEBTEDNESS.

The bonded indebtedness of the municipalities of the United States continues to increase, and new securities are being issued at the rate of about a billion dollars annually, according to a commentary upon the debt of more than two hundred cities by C. F. Rightor, chief accountant, Detroit bureau of government research.

The average per capita debt ranges from all cities of 2,500 or more is $70.80, but the per capita debt ranges from $258.62 for Norfolk to $10.96 for Quincy, Illinois. The per capita indebtedness in general, however, is below that of thirteen principal Canadian cities, in which it ranges from $263.95 in Edmonton, Alberta, to $112.02 in Hamilton, Ontario.

The people of Michigan, under a new law, cannot obtain table salt in any form except that which has been adulterated with iodine. This is for the purpose of reducing the prevalence of goiter. How about the "personal liberty" equation in this proposition?

THREE KILLED

When Gasoline Tank Exploded on West Third Avenue, Columbus.

Four 4,000 gallon tanks of gasoline in the storage plant of the Central Ohio Oil company's storage building exploded at the foot of West First avenue at 7:45 o'clock this morning in Columbus.

Joseph Ryan, aged 26, warehouse foreman; Frank Keiffer, aged 30, and L. D. Williams, aged 28, truck drivers are in White Cross hospital and it is thought that a number of other men were caught in the flames which followed the explosion.

The entire fire department of the city was called out to fight the flames. Within twenty feet of the big fire are located twelve 17,000 gallon tanks of high test gasoline. The water is being played on these tanks to keep them cool and prevent them from exploding.

Not So Funny

An insurance salesman is looking for the practical joker who gave him a loaded cigar. The salesman doesn't smoke, so he treasured the cigar. Monday he gave it to a man who was about to sign a $10,000 policy. The cigar burst like a bomb and the indignant prospective customer ordered the salesman out. He went, with the policy still unsigned.—Detroit News.

A QUERY.

Whether this old world of ours is filled with cold, calculating, selfish mortals whose sole mission in life is directed toward gathering to themselves all the good things of life, or whether it is peopled with generous folks who exist only to scatter sunshine and roses in the pathway of others, depends entirely upon the viewpoint.

Until recently we were strongly inclined to the belief that selfishness is the motive power behind the mad rush for money, position, finery, good looks and fame, but we have been awakened and disillusioned.

A short time ago, we complimented a young girl on her good looks and the possession of a beautiful, new hat which she adorned and remarked that it must be a very great pleasure to be able to get such a magnificent headpiece and one which was so becoming to her particular style of beauty, and then came the awakening.

Politely, but firmly, we were informed that her own gratification was the farthest thing from her thoughts; that, indeed the matter of arraying herself in expensive gowns and fetching headgear and stylish shoes, was rather irksome; yet she reluctantly gained the consent of her own mind to make the sacrifice in order to produce a charming picture which would give genuine pleasure to all beholders, and more especially to all her sisters, and which would act as a soothing benediction upon all within the range of whose vision she came.

But, we give it up. The masculine mind can never hope to comprehend what is in the back of the head of our fair sisters any more than he can convince himself whether or not the addition of multi-colored finery adds to or detracts from the loveliness of the gentler sex.

To illustrate. A few days ago we observed this same sweet, young thing under the self same hat set on "hindsight before" and the picture lost none of its beauty. Probably the effect would have been the same if it had been worn "upside down."

BONDED INDEBTEDNESS.

The bonded indebtedness of the municipalities of the United States continues to increase, and new securities are being issued at the rate of about a billion dollars annually, according to a commentary upon the debt of more than two hundred cities by C. F. Rightor, chief accountant, Detroit bureau of government research.

The average per capita debt ranges from all cities of 2,500 or more is $70.80, but the per capita debt ranges from $258.62 for Norfolk to $10.96 for Quincy, Illinois. The per capita indebtedness in general, however, is below that of thirteen principal Canadian cities, in which it ranges from $263.05 in Edmonton, Alberta, to $112.02 in Hamilton, Ontario.

The people of Michigan, under a new law, cannot obtain table salt in any form except that which has been adulterated with iodine. This is for the purpose of reducing the prevalence of goiter. How about the "personal liberty" equation in this proposition?

TIRE BUILDING

Standard of Service Has Been Raised
Over That of Years Ago.

The high degree to which production efficiency has been brought about in the plants of The B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, is particularly noticeable to a visitor who calls at the plant at this season of the year.

Production of Goodrich tires is being accomplished thru the elimination of lost time and waste at a saving which was undreamed of five or six years ago. And the fact remains that probably the most astonishing thing about this economy is that with the advance of efficiency in manufacture has come a steady improvement in the product. The result is that the standard of service for tires has been considerably raised over what it was a few years ago.

In the old days one of the biggest items of waste in tire manufacture came in the fabric that the tire builder trimmed off. This item was also a very important gauge to the quality of the tire, for the tire builder who had a large trim was stretching his plies too much making the tire carcass too tight and susceptible to breakage under strain. On the other hand the tire builder whose trim was practically negligible was not stretching his plies tight enough and the result might show in a wrinkled ply which in the end would weaken the carcass.

Since the advent of mechanical tire building means the product becomes more uniform and labor is not such a factor governing tire quality. Today in the Goodrich factory detailed records are kept of the number of ounces of fabric trimmed from each tire by each building machine operator. These figures are constantly checked by inspectors and waste specialists who are able to correct the machine or builder when the slightest variation occurs. In this way the high standard of quality that is so consistently shown in long mileage records is maintained in every tire produced.

GOOD PROGRAM

Ladies' Aid Society of U. B. Church Had Interesting Session.

A very delightful evening was spent Thursday at the community house, when the Ladies' Aid society of the U. B. church held an open meeting. The room was prettily decorated with white hydrangeas and roses and the following interesting program was rendered before the large audience composed of the members, husbands, daughters and friends.

Music Orchestra
Reading Bernice Buskirk
Solo Mrs. Donald White
Recitation Mrs. Gussman
Music Orchestra
Quartet—Evelyn Collier, Mary and Florence Willoughby, May Willis
Recitation Bessie M. Long
Reading Mrs. Kerns
Mrs. Florence Toole Nathan, of New York City, daughter of Walter Toole, concluded the program by singing a solo. Mrs. Nathan possesses a wonderful, sweet voice and her song was thoroughly enjoyed.

After a prayer by Rev. Hiles and a short business session a delightful social hour followed during which refreshments were served. Altho the lights were out for about an hour, and followed by the storm it was an evening long to be remembered as one of rare enjoyment.

Old American Fort

The fort known as Chef Menteur has figured fairly extensively in Louisiana history. In regard to the naming of the fort, the following legend is told: The Choctaws were conspicuous for their love of truth, but one of the chiefs was known to prevaricate frequently. He was exiled and settled on an isthmus projecting into Lake Pontchartrain, which therefore was called "Chef Menteur," which is French for "Lying Chief."

Japan's Holy Mountain

A number of reasons enter into the fact that Fuji San is called "the holy mountain of Japan." Its perfection of beauty, its supposedly miraculous creation and the fact that on its slopes are many shrines cause thousands of pilgrims to hold the mountain in reverence and to visit it annually.

ROSEWAY

Beautiful Sight is Presented in Drive in Park Place.

If you wish to see a beautiful drive-way, 'steer your car into Park Place Sunday and drive around the winding roads past the homes of Dr. Howard Jones, H. P. Folsom, Samuel Lindsay Samuel Ward and John F. Mader and out past the home of Alan Newmyer. Just now the roadways are bordered with a wealth of beautiful blooming roses. The Dorothy Perkins variety is in the ascendancy. She clings in profusion to every fence and branch of tree and in her dress of pink on a field of green, she makes you think that is really the good old summer time, when ice cream, bathing, mosquitoes and chiggers have their day.

Longevity Recipe

The Cardinal de Solis, archbishop of Seville, in Spain, was one hundred ten years old when he died. He used to tell his friends, when asked what regimen he observed to enable him to live to such a great age, "By being old when I was young, I am able to be young when I am old. I led a sober, studious, contemplative, but not lazy or sedentary life."

SOCIAL CALENDAR

THE Swanson in THIS picture is the greatest Swanson you've ever seen!

As gorgeous and beautiful and alluringly gowned as ever---

-- as saucy and pert and deliciously French as she was in "Zaza"---

-- and also---hold your breath!--in her first male impersonation!

Gloria Swanson in trousers!

As the most notorious Apache in Paris, who masquerades in boy's clothes and becomes the talk of the boulevards and the nemesis of the police.

It's a remarkable role and in it Gloria does her greatest acting.

After "Zaza," a tremendous success, her follow-up picture had to be at least as good. "The Humming Bird" not only is better, but soars to a new high mark for Swanson pictures for all time!

MAUBIN PARADISE FOR MOSQUITOESNumber and Size Unsurpassed Anywhere Else.

It is said that Maubin, in Burma, evinces its greatest claim to notice, or rather notoriety, in the quantity and kind of mosquitoes it contains. These in number and size, as well as virulent activity, are assured by competent authority, are unsurpassed anywhere else in the world.

One's first visit to Maubin in the mosquito season is an experience. Not able to wait till the tourist arrives, a large detachment swarms out to meet him, coming over the ship's side in hordes and, like an irresistible army, occupying every fraction of its surface. They hang in festoons from the white awnings, the mosquito nets, the table linen and the punkah flaps. In fact, they cover every object on which they can secure a footing.

A European house in Maubin has its every window--and in the tropics there is an infinity of windows--protected by sliding curtains of iron gauze, as does also every ventilator under the eaves, every open space between the room partitions and the roof. For the sake of air, such places are large and frequent, but not one is left unbarred against invasion. In some houses there is a special room, a kind of inner citadel and last refuge, which is wholly of iron gauze, and within it the master of the house sits, like a lion in a cage.

To enter this fortress in advance of the enemy calls for the exercise of agility of a high order. Outside the cage the light cavalry of the enemy hovers. The man within this strange castle observes your approach with furtive and anxious eyes. He begs you to be careful in entering. Immediately you enter he falls with savage onslaught on such of the enemy as come on your back, in your hair, in the creases of your clothes.

While mosquitoes monopolize Maubin, Maubin has not a monopoly on the mosquito market. In fact, the more tropical parts of the world do not have a corner on the pests. For in the Arctic in Alaska, in latitude 71 degrees north, the pest must be reckoned with. They fairly rain down on a defenseless head.

Few Babies Born in Homes

Seeking out the birthplace of Americans is a practice destined to disappear, according to the present trend of birth statistics. Figures gathered by physicians and health agencies show that the percentage of babies born at home is steadily falling off, with a corresponding increase in births at maternity hospitals. In many communities throughout the United States, it was said at the recent convention of the American College of Surgeons, more than a quarter of the children are hospital-born. In certain localities the figure is as high as 75 per cent. The New York Nursery and Child's hospital has completed a survey of facilities for maternity service on the lower West side, in which it was found that an increasing number of women are having their babies at the hospital. John R. Howard, Jr., superintendent, pointed out that while only 31 ward cases of every 100 attended by the hospital's physicians in 1916 were handled at the hospital the number now is 57 out of every 100.

Supply Exceeds Demand

There was an imperious ring at the front door bell which caused Jones to go rushing to open it, as he expected to find some important visitors on the doorstep.

He was quite angry when he found that it was only a canvasser selling stationery.

"Any notepaper today, sir?" inquired the canvasser.

"No, none," answered Jones shortly.

"Any pencils?"

"No."

"Try one of our cheap fountain pens. The demand exceeds the supply."

Jones looked at his ink-stained fingers ruefully and then held them out for the canvasser's inspection.

"My experience of cheap fountain pens," he said angrily, "is that the supply exceeds the demand."

His Last Excuse

The colonel was playing his daily round of golf, but, as usual, he was pretty badly off his game. At the second hole he fozzled his drive and cursed the condition of the green. And so the game progressed, the colonel making mistakes galore and finding a new excuse for each one of them.

At the fifteenth hole he fozzled a beautiful brassie lie, but by now he was absolutely devoid of excuses. With bristling mustache he glared round about him, and then bellowed, as he observed the sea in the distance: "How the devil can any man be expected to play decent golf with all these blasted ships sailing up and down!" -- Sporting and Dramatic News.

Absolutely

At a lecture, the speaker orated fervently: "He drove straight to his goal. He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but pressed forward, moved by a definite purpose. Neither friend nor foe could delay him, nor turn him from his course. All who crossed his path did so at their own peril. What would you call such a man?"

"A truck driver!" shouted a voice from the audience.--Forbes Magazine.

MRS. BERNICE S. PYKE.

Early in the week Mrs. Bernice Pyke, of Cleveland, delegate to the Democratic convention, was alone with her bobbed hair. Then things began to happen and reports from New York Friday said hotel barber shops there are swamped with appointments for women delegates or delegates' wives--all due to the fact that when women mentioned the intense heat to Mrs. Pyke, she advised "a bob."

Mrs. Pyke is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Secrest, formerly of this city.

OPENING MONDAY, JUNE 30---3 DAYS

THE Swanson in THIS picture is the greatest Swanson you've ever seen!

As gorgeous and beautiful and alluringly gowned as ever--

-- as saucy and pert and deliciously French as she was in "Zaza"---

-- and also---hold your breath!--in her first male impersonation!

Gloria Swanson in trousers!

As the most notorious Apache in Paris, who masquerades in boy's clothes and becomes the talk of the boulevards and the nemesis of the police.

It's a remarkable role and in it Gloria does her greatest acting.

After "Zaza," a tremendous success, her follow-up picture had to be at least as good. "The Humming Bird" not only is better, but soars to a new high mark for Swanson pictures for all time!

MAUBIN PARADISE FOR MOSQUITOES

Number and Size Unsurpassed Anywhere Else.

It is said that Maubin, in Burma, evinces its greatest claim to notice, or rather notoriety, in the quantity and kind of mosquitoes it contains. These in number and size, as well as virulent activity, are unsurpassed anywhere else in the world.

One's first visit to Maubin in the mosquito season is an experience. Not able to wait till the tourist arrives, a large detachment swarms out to meet him, coming over the ship's side in herds and, like an irresistible army, occupying every fraction of its surface. They hang in festoons from the white awnings, the mosquito nets, the table linen and the punkah flaps. In fact, they cover every object on which they can secure a footing.

A European house in Maubin has its every window—and in the tropics there is an infinity of windows—protected by sliding curtains of iron gauze, as does also every ventilator under the eaves, every open space between the room partitions and the roof. For the sake of air, such places are large and frequent, but not one is left unbarred against invasion. In some houses there is a special room, a kind of inner citadel and last refuge, which is wholly of iron gauze, and within it the master of the house sits, like a lion in a cage.

To enter this fortress in advance of the enemy calls for the exercise of agility of a high order. Outside the cage the light cavalry of the enemy hovers. The man within this strange castle observes your approach with furtive and anxious eyes. He begs you to be careful in entering. Immediately you enter he falls with savage onslaught on such of the enemy as come on your back, in your hair, in the creases of your clothes.

While mosquitoes monopolize Maubin, Maubin has not a monopoly on the mosquito market. In fact, the more tropical parts of the world do not have a corner on the pests. For in the Arctic in Alaska, in latitude 71 degrees north, the pest must be reckoned with. They fairly rain down on a defenseless head.

Few Babies Born in Homes

Seeking out the birthplace of Americans is a practice destined to disappear, according to the present trend of birth statistics. Figures gathered by physicians and health agencies show that the percentage of babies born at home is steadily falling off, with a corresponding increase in births at maternity hospitals. In many communities throughout the United States, it was said at the recent convention of the American College of Surgeons, more than a quarter of the children are hospital-born. In certain localities the figure is as high as 75 per cent. The New York Nursery and Child's hospital has completed a survey of facilities for maternity service on the lower West side, in which it was found that an increasing number of women are having their babies at the hospital. John R. Howard, Jr., superintendent, pointed out that while only 31 ward cases of every 100 attended by the hospital's physicians in 1916 were handled at the hospital the number now is 57 out of every 100.

Supply Exceeds Demand

There was an imperious ring at the front door bell which caused Jones to go rushing to open it, as he expected to find some important visitors on the doorstep.

He was quite angry when he found that it was only a canvasser selling stationery.

"Any notepaper today, sir?" inquired the canvasser.

"No, none," answered Jones shortly.

"Any pencils?"

"No."

"Try one of our cheap fountain pens. The demand exceeds the supply."

Jones looked at his ink-stained fingers ruefully and then held them out for the canvasser's inspection.

"My experience of cheap fountain pens," he said angrily, "is that the supply exceeds the demand."

His Last Excuse

The colonel was playing his daily round of golf, but, as usual, he was pretty badly off his game. At the second hole he fozzled his drive and cursed the condition of the green, and so the game progressed, the colonel making mistakes galore and finding a new excuse for each one of them.

At the fifteenth hole he fozzled a beautiful brassie lie, but by now he was absolutely devoid of excuses. With bristling mustache he glared round about him, and then bellowed, as he observed the sea in the distance: "How the devil can any man be expected to play decent golf with all these blasted ships sailing up and down!" — Sporting and Dramatic News.

Absolutely

At a lecture, the speaker orated fervently: "He drove straight to his goal. He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but pressed forward, moved by a definite purpose. Neither friend nor foe could delay him, nor turn him from his course. All who crossed his path did so at their own peril. What would you call such a man?"

"A truck driver!" shouted a voice from the audience.—Forbes' Magazine.

MRS. BERNICE S. PYKE.

Early in the week Mrs. Bernice Pyke, of Cleveland, delegate to the Democratic convention, was alone with her bobbed hair. Then things began to happen and reports from New York Friday said hotel barber shops there are swamped with appointments for women delegates or delegates' wives—all due to the fact that when women mentioned the intense heat to Mrs. Pyke, she advised "a bob."

Mrs. Pyke is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Secrest, formerly of this city.

FICKARDT'S ROUP AND CHOLERA DROPS.

On May 7, 1924, I called on Elmer Doner, Ashville, R. F. D. No. 1, and he told me the following:

I bought four hundred (400) chicks of a hatchery and while there I bought some tablets to prevent disease or cure them if they were sick. Very soon the chicks began to die, I tried the tablets that I had obtained at the hatchery. I then bought other tablets liquids and powders, all nationally advertised remedies, but none of them did any good and my chicks kept on dying until I had lost 250.

A friend of mine told me of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops, at that time I had ten sick chicks in a pen separated from the well stock and I really considered them as good as dead.

I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops with all my chicks, both well and sick. Two of the sick ones died, the other eight recovered and I have not lost any others since I began to use Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops over a month ago.

I would have probably thought that the disease had run its course if it had not been for the fact that these that were sick recovered, but seeing the sick ones get well has convinced me that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera drops cured them.

Search for Latent Genius Among Poor

Doing easily what others find difficult is talent, doing what is impossible for talent is genius, said Amiel in his charming and pensive Journal. Perhaps no more true and trenchant definition has ever been coined. The practice that makes perfect is the path of progress followed by talent; but the wind of genius blows where it listeth. The logic of promise and conclusion, the law of cause and effect, always apply in the development of talent; with true genius there is always the suggestion of the intervention of a miraculous element.

Talent, it is true, becomes the tool of genius, which must be tempered by time and sharpened by work. The almost infinite capacity for tremendous effort and tireless toil shown by every first rate genius has given rise to the popular notion that inspiration is only a highfalutin' word for perspiration, and that Carlyle may have been right when he said that genius means the transcendent capacity for taking trouble.

Directors of a settlement house on the lower east side of New York have undertaken to make a systematic and persistent search for latent genius among the children of the poor. It is their belief that Gray was right about the many flowers that blush unseen and waste their sweetness on the desert air, and if there is anything they can do to prevent it there will be no more mute inglorious Miltons of the slums whose potential contribution shall be lost to the world for want of opportunity.

The idea of the patron, an individual or an organization, whose timely aid will promote talent and encourage genius is, of course, not new. But the suggestion of a society whose chief concern it will be to seek to discover and then develop potential genius is something of an innovation. But, as a matter of fact and record, the history of genius would seem to indicate that along with the special gift is usually born an indomitable will which enables the genius to overcome all difficulties of environment, all want of opportunity, and arrive at last at the destined goal.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Last of the "Longhorns"

The day of the "longhorn," the Texas steer famed for its breadth of horn and lightness of body, is past. Today there is not a real longhorn in the whole of Texas, not even in Pecos valley, where it made its last stand against the blood of high breeding as practiced by the Northerners who have converted Texas from a raising ground of horns and speed to a home of real beef. The genuine longhorn weighed but from 600 to 700 pounds, and could race with a coyote. It had descended from the early cattle of the Spaniards, who were the first white settlers of the Rio Grande country and the semi-desert lands of the Southwest. It has been years since a real longhorn has been seen on the plains of Texas. But the greatest of all longhorns was not killed by man. This steer, a maverick, a lone outcast from his herd, who lived and roamed alone, fell prey to wolves in the Devil's River mountains years ago. His horns are now in San Angelo. These, measuring eight feet from tip to tip, were found by cowboys.

Tobacco Paid for Isle

Ten Stick island, mentioned recently in a dispatch from the New Hebrides, got its name in a queer way. Of considerable height, though only a few hundred yards in circumference, it used to be a favorite mark for men-of-war engaged in target practice while stationed in the group, so that it seemed in danger of being gradually shot away. The chief who owned it protested, and claimed compensation. The captain of the patrol ship to whom the claim was presented promptly bought the island, for the British crown, paying ten sticks of tobacco for it, and the chief went on his way rejoicing.

About Fire Bricks

Le Chatelier and Bogitch have been engaged for some time in researches upon fire brick and the best makeup to be employed. Such fire brick is composed of granulated silica and various oxides in powder used as a binding material. It is found that the best binding substance is impalpable quartz powder, which is produced in special crushing mills. The use of this powder considerably increases the strength of the bricks at a high temperature of 1600 degrees centigrade, and this is one of the most important qualities of fire brick.

Ain't Nature Natural?

With a view possibly to guiding the cool's mind to a quieter summer hat than she had worn the previous season, Mrs. Smith, wife of a small-town plumber, spoke of some violets she had seen in a milliner's window, says the Hardware World. "They're almost exactly like those in our garden, Mary," she said. "You've seen those often." "Indeed I have, mum," returned Mary. "I was after waterin' them this very mornin'." Ain't it wonderful, mum, how natural the Lord can make them?"

In Memoriam.

Editor Union-Herald:—Lydia Alice Redman was born October 16, 1860, and departed this life on the 7th of June, 1924, at the age of 63 years, seven months and 21 days.

She was the daughter of John and Hannah Seeds Redman. She was married at London, Ohio, to Daniel Steenrod McFarland on the 8th of February 1880. To this union was born 14 children, five of whom have preceded their mother to the great beyond. Besides her husband six daughters and three sons survive: Mrs. Anna Hancock, of Columbus; Newton McFarland, of Williamsport; Douglas McFarland, of McArthur; Mrs. Josie Grubbs, of Oetz Junction; Mrs. Hannah O'Neal, of Mt. Sterling; Mrs. Mrs. Alice Mahorney, Williamsport, Daniel, Grace and Oma, at home. She also leaves 17 grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Angeline Powell, of Westerville, Ohio, and two brothers, John Redman and Josiah Redman, of Commercial Point, besides numerous nieces and nephews and friends to mourn their loss. Aunt Alice, as most people knew and spoke of her, had spent most of her life in the community where she spent her last days. She was a good woman of gentle disposition and kind to everyone, and always had a smile.

Why He Was Gloomy

When Jones' rich grandmother passed away all his poverty-stricken friends rallied round him with words of cheer and comfort. But Jones remained sad and dejected.

"She left a last will and testament, I suppose?" murmured Jenkins, carelessly.

"Oh, yes," said Jones, "she left a will and testament."

They waited expectantly, while sobs choked back his words.

"I," he declared at last, "am to have the Testament."

Rat Fleas

Although plague is spread by the bite of rat fleas that have formerly feasted on the blood of a plague-infected person or animal, not every species of flea performs this office. It has been found that one species of rat flea is apparently responsible for most of the outbreaks of pestilence, at least in India where it is endemic. The geographical distribution of the disease varies there with that of the flea Xenopsylla cheopis, while other species of rat fleas predominate where plague is uncommon.

PAINTING SMALL CAR BY AMATEUR

Cost of Renovation in Various Cases, Apart From Time, Is Not Heavy.

By BRWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.
Car painting by amateurs is quite the fashion nowadays. Small car owners will be glad to hear that the cost of renovating a car in various cases, apart from the questions of his own labor and time, is not at all heavy. For a one-coat job the cost of enamel, brush and cleaning materials is well under $5, while a complete renovation (three-coat work) or changing the color need not cost very much more and leave a good quantity of material over for retouching purposes. This figure is on the ample side and allows for the very best material. Car renovation is a case where only the best materials should be employed, and the amateur should insist upon obtaining first-class enamel.

Wide Range of Colors.

The work is easily carried out, and excellent results may be obtained. As to the choice of color, a very wide range is available, including the popular grays, blues of all shades, greens, reds, dark browns, yellows, whites, creams, and black. In the majority of cases where car renovation is necessary it will be found a very simple matter. When cars have been stored, it may be found that the paint work has entirely lost its gloss and presents a dull and dirty appearance. Provided the surface is in fairly good condition, all that may be necessary is to give the car one coat of enamel.

The body work and chassis should first be cleaned with turpentine or gasoline to remove any grease. Prepare a pail of hot water to which some common washing soda has been added (not too much soda should be used, about one ounce to a gallon of water being sufficient.) Take a piece of flat felt and dip it in the hot soda water and then in finest pumice dust, and scour down well with this, doing about three feet of the body work at a time until the car is completely rubbed over. All pumice dust should be removed with clean cold water and a chamois.

Touch Up Dents.

When dry touch up any scratches or dents with paint and fill in with a suitable stopping paste. After the stopping paste is dry it should be rubbed over smoothly with a piece of fine sandpaper and all dust washed off. A coat of gloss enamel should be applied and the job is completed.

Wabbling Hind Wheel Is "Eyesore" to Any Driver

If there's one thing that's bound to catch the eye of any driver, no matter how unobserving otherwise, it's a wabbling hind wheel of a car ahead or the crippled front "roller" of a machine approaching. All who witness these premonitions of danger prophesy trouble ahead for the owner.

But the owner seldom learns the truth about the condition of his own wheels because he is busy speculating about the crooked courses the wheels of passing cars are taking.

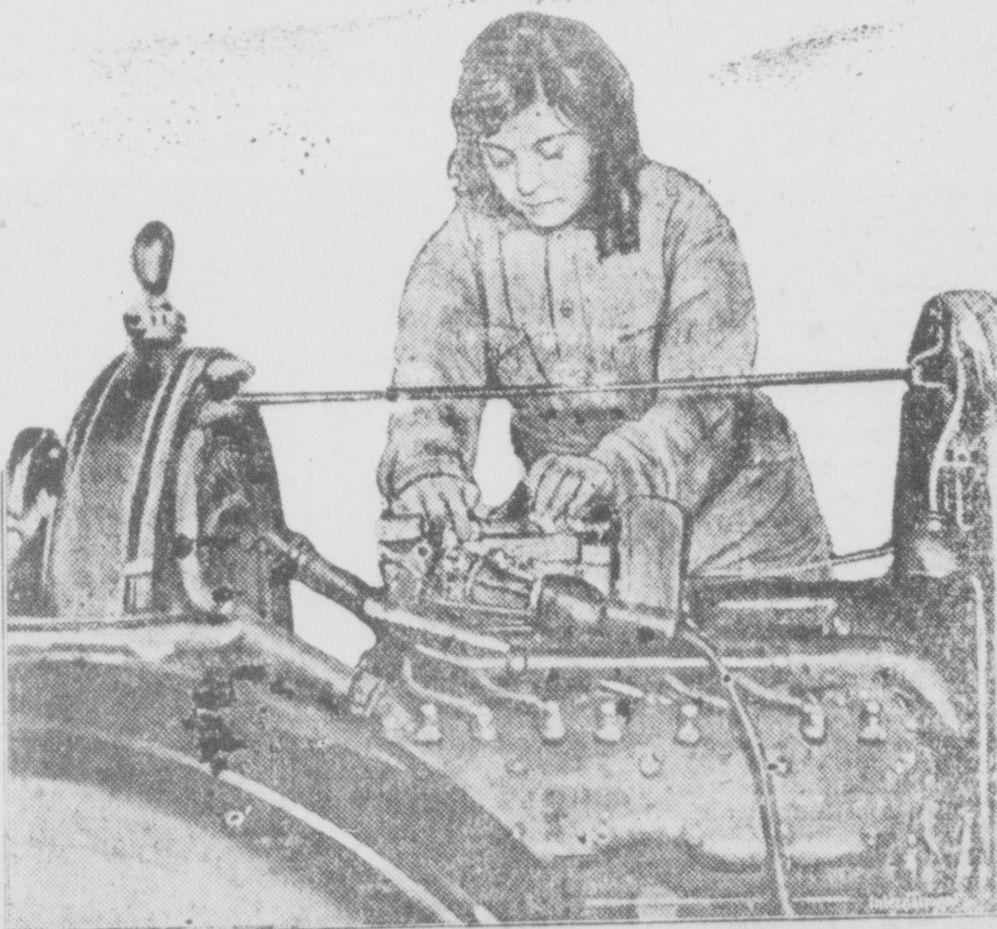

Early and Late Sparks Are Designation Terms

Early spark and late spark are merely terms to designate how the spark is timed by manipulation of the spark control lever, early spark meaning spark occurring a trifle before the beginning of power stroke of each piston, caused by advancing the spark lever; and late spark meaning spark occurring at the beginning or a trifle after beginning of power strokes and caused by retarding the spark lever.

Bluing Metal

Small bright metal objects, such as screws, may be blued by the simple process of placing them on a piece of sheet metal and holding it over a fire until the parts being treated have assumed the desired color.

Pedestrians Urged to Face Traffic on Road

The Pennsylvania Motor federation sent to its 62 affiliated clubs a circular urging pedestrians walking on the highways, especially at night, to face the traffic by walking on the left side of the road. After a careful study of the situation, it has been found that in most of the cases where cars strike persons on the highways at night the driver is partially blinded by the headlights of approaching cars and, swinging to the right, falls to see pedestrians. It is contended that if persons walking on the roads would face the traffic they would be better able to avoid being struck, and also would be seen sooner by the drivers of cars approaching in the opposite direction.

Unloading Heavy Machine From Platform to Truck

A man who had the job of unloading heavy machines from a truck was confronted by the shortage of labor, and employed a method which made use of the power of the truck for moving machines. On backing the truck up against the loading platform, the machine was moved by means of levers,

By Moving a Truck Forward and Back Under Its Own Power, Heavy Machines Are Unloaded From It on Rollers, and Pushed Onto Flat Cars.

so that the base of it projected about 10 inches from the rear end of the truck. It was raised slightly, so that a roller could be placed under it. —Maury Robinson, Paris, Tex., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Plan to Test Defective Valve for a Slow Leak

To test a defective valve for a slow leak, turn the wheel until the valve stem is at its highest point—as far from the road as possible. Remove the dust cap and hold a glass of water so that the mouth of the stem is submerged beneath the liquid. Small bubbles of air will form and rise to the surface of the water if the valve is leaking. When such trouble is experienced, the cause is usually eliminated by screwing down the seating of the valve or replacing with a new plunger.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

Feed a teaspoonful of graphite into the engine through the inlet while the engine is running, but be sure to use only the best graphite.

Thirteen million automobiles registered at an average of 4,000 miles of travel per vehicle per year will roll up a total of something like 52,000,000,000 car miles per year.

Both caterpillar tread and wheel traction are provided with a new concrete mixer for street paving contractors, the two types of motive power being readily interchangeable.

Barriers extending along the ground from one or both sides of a recently patented roadway gate enable the automobilist to open or close the gate merely by running his car over them.

Never pour water rapidly into the cooling system when a motor is hot. Cold water, when striking the overheated cylinders, is likely to cause them to crack because of the rapid contraction which takes place.
